

Poem: Oh! My final home

I struggled to find my final home amongst you,

I trembled to see the oceans flood my vision of your voice.

I linger on the wilds of tomorrow for just one more look as I feel lost within my own final home.

I would give you the most desirable kisses.

I want you addicted to me in every way to be my own home forever.

I would give you the most desirable kisses .

I struggled to find someone like you to be my center.

I trembled as the lands made me complex to hold up my worth.

I linger for the wilds of today to refresh my memory of the look you gave me before I saw you go.

Stay safe inside my inner mind.

Stay filled inside my inner mind.

Touch my heart as you've molded mine.

Strange days beget me into submission of this passion.

For you are my final home that has been solely mine.

As I see your eyes fall on me, I am finally home.

By: Dea Divi